EXTRACTS FROM AN ARTICLE BY COMMANDER BOOTH-TUCKER.

From 1844 to 1892, from an ashare of the property of Nottingham, Engiand, to the centres of civilization of the old and new world, to the mammoth auditoriums of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and America, to the Albert Hail and Westminister Abbey of London, to the White House and Senate of the United States; from a solitary street-preacher, to the leader of a bannered host whose song/angired, music-ministering legions encircle the world! What an accomplishment of centuries crowded into a life-time! What a moniment of God's goodness and his wonder-working power of this wonder working power of the Gospel ream of the form of the first property of the control of the control

The Churchless Masses

The Churchicas Massas
who had given up God, thrown aside their Bibles, almost forgotten that they had souls, and drifted like human satisfaction in the threes of death, have ocen tested by mult-sudes, whose church has deen the saltom, whose dwices prayers consisted of terrible oaths and imprecations.

Ont, three days after the heattle of Ridge way. His deltachment was sent to Stratford, and here David, with his comrates, went in for all kinds of miscrages, but was rather fortunate, in getting ont of them unseathed.

On one occasion he, with some of his commutes, went off for a spree, and drank and played cards until well on to the morning, when one of their number went to sleep. Always on the aier for any kind of mischief, it was proposed that they alsy some trick on the sleeper. "Let's saw off his leg," said one, so it was agreed, and forthwith they sawed off the sleephy man's leg.
It will be a relief, no doubt, to our readers to know that the leg was a wooden one.

Card-playing was one of his favorite amusements, and many a time he has sat up all sight with his cards.

After remulning a year in the army he paid $100 and got his discharge, and settled down to London, Oht, in which beautiful little city he has resided ever since. His married lither was a happy one. His married lither that he drank heavily and the his side of the little was a happy one was to have the his wife and family were every his his wife and family were severally as were spent in drink and his David Andrews was, a folly good fellow, "one of the boys," as he himself says, and while he carried lots of money he spent it as freely to no profit. Almost twenty years ago the Salvation Army atruck London, and David Andrews first also valutance with themcame about in the following way:

Capt. Jack Addie, now Brigadier Addie, in the United States, called one day in search of Mr. Addrews, who he thought halonged to the Army. However, he had come to the wrong house. David went into the house and said to his wife:

Those Men are Fools-

I think they must be drunk."

"Oh, no," said his wife, "they belong to what is called the Salvation Army, and I have been to bear them."

"Well," said ber bueband, "I would not so exain; they are a lot of thurshs."

A friend, however, prevailed on him to go and hear the Salvation Army for immelt, and he went, but took good care to stand a long way off, for fear anyone would see him even looking at the Salvation Army. By-adhye he came a little nearer, and used to give freely in the collections, until at least, one should night, he ventured into the barrieck from the wordings regularly, under deep onviction, and during that the perfect for two years he and his wife the property of the collections, and the barrieck from the mertings regularly, under deep onviction, and during that the property of the more than the property of the meetings. However, the trouble was somothing a mistard plaster could not cure. The hold pride still remained, and Mr. Andrews was not yet willing to cast inhals lot with the desplaced and persecuted Salvation Army, as it was in those days.

He declared he would never go near the Army again, but Capi. Langiry, now Mrs. Brigadier VanAllen, violited him and procyach him to come to the Roll Call one evening. He walked up to within a short distance of the harracks, when he stopped and stood leaning up against a telegraph pole, still undecided. One and another of the soldiers came up and invited him had at last he went, and that night made a full surrender of himself to Cut, and tor eighteen years now David Andrews has been a good, faithful loyed Salvationist.

FACE.

We say that our thoughts are not known to our fellows; but that is not as Iruo as we deem it when we say or think this to be the case. The tenor of our thoughts is being written in the expression of our faces day by day. Love, purity, communion with food in our inner selves, will give our faces a look that shows the direction of our desires and being. Selfalinues, librature, impure desire, unworthy motives induised in it secret, will steadily transform the finest lines of the face. We should be amprised if we know how much we show of our selves to our fellows in the daify walk of life. The only way of having a cause is to have be opinit pursues a course that wither a good record on the face.

PRETENDERS.

(We reprint the following paragraphs from the Editorial Notes of the London War Cry, as of special interest to our readers who have read of the preteations of Mr. Pigott to be the Christ.—Ed.]

The Agapemone.

Mr. Pigott is a disciple of a man named Prince, also a Church of Eng-land clergyman, who pretended that he was the personification of the Holy Ghost, and who gathered around him, some years ago, a small band of man and women in a village mansion near and women in a village mansion near Bridgewater, where they lived together in felteness and tuxury. This man, after heing guilty of hiasphemy and hyproelsy of the worst type, cheated some of his women-disciples out of their money, for which, by the way, he offered them a high rate of interest if they would "deposit" it with him, and then he fell into open adultery of the most shameless kind with others. To make had matters worse, he defended these abominations in his printed writings, which I have myself seen, claiming that he was ordered to induing in them by a was ordered to include in them by a revenation of the Holy Ghost! After thus reducing his "abode of love," as thus reducing his above of love, as the called bla house, to a cospool of sin, he wickedly announced that he should never die! Like many other lies, that one has now been finally disposed of—for his death certificate can be read in the public records. He has gone to render his account to God, and there we can leave him. But thet any same person can still be per-suaded to believe in him or his teachlngs, is almost incredible. More le-èredible still is it that any pure-mind-ed woman or any honest-minded man can conceive that Jesus Christ, the holy Son of God, could have anything to do with such iniquity.

Another Sign.

But we have another test for the so-called prophets and messlahs, and it is one which Jeaus Christ Himself gave us for them. "By their fruits ye shall know them." When we find men making claims to Divine inspiration and authority, living in hunery and ease, and urging on their representatives that they should seek after possessions and irches, and the "good things of this world," while they denounce as hypocrites and apostates all who reject their claims, ao amount of "fath"-teaching, or "fath"-cures can blind our eyes to their hopeless departure from the words of the apostle who words. "If eany man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him," and from the mind and But we have another test for the not in him," and from the mind and spirit of Jesus, that Son of the poor, who had not where to lay His head. When we see men like this late Mr. Prince and his followers living in luxury and laziness amids all that this world can afford of pleasure, while they consign those who do not helleve in them and their messiahship to perdition, we are not to be deceived by nice phrases about the love of Jesus, and elegant churches, and pract-ty church music. Let us hold fast to the simpocity of the great salvation, and go on with the work of pull-ing men out of the fire, hating the garment spotted by the flesh.

We do not need the cross without if we have the Christ within. --::--

It is better to see clearly one or two things in life than to move con-fused and blinded in the dust of an impotent activity. — Hamilton W. Mable.

Neal morning the entire vitings once more folined us under the tree. It was a day of triumph. From start to mish there was not a discordant to mish there was not a discordant note. Another alght was spont under the tree, and then on the following morning we formed a procession and marched joyfully hack with songs of praise. It was a blessed illustration of the power of prayer.

Many striking conversions took place during this period. Not a few of these are singing the song of the Lamb around the Throne, while others occupy forefront positions as workers.

One of the most remarkable converts was a Hindoo faker, or religious medicant, known as "Poonja Bhagat." The appellation "Bhagat" is equivalent to "staint," for it was as such that he and patomate the staint, for it was as such that he and patomate. The Founder of Our World-Wide Army.

(To our frontisplece.)

UR beloved General was born in Nuttingham, on the 10th of Mortingham, etc. I learn that his mother was of so amiable a disposition and saintly a character that he regarded her as the nearest approach to human perfection with which he to human perfection with which he was acquainted.

His father, an able and energetic man of business, attained a position of silluence, but subsequently suffered a reverse of fortune, and died prematurely, leaving his family to struggle with adverse circumstances.

William, the sole surviving son, was apprenticed at an early age to a firm where it soon became manifest that he had inherited a double portion of his father's enterprise and commercial skill.

his father's enterprise and commercial skill.

He knew nothing of conversion until happening to stray into a Wasleyan chapel. His attention was arrested by the novelty and simplicity of the services. For some it'me he continued to attend. The truths, tersely and powerfully expounded, took an increasing hold of his mind, and on one memorable evening, in a class meeting, after days and stights of anxious seeking, he publicly and unreservedly gave his heart to God, and though but a lad of fifteen, he gave proof in manifold measure of the reality of his conversion.

Started at Fifteen.

Started at Fiftcon.

As a bey of fiftcon we find the General putting all the energies of youth into the service of Christ.

Unable to heave business until extended to the service of the uncted to the back entrance and seat-ed in the hinder part of the building, where their presence would be less conspicuous and disagreeable to the more respectable members of the con-gregation.

Birth-Place of the Salvation Army-Quaker's Burial Ground.

Quaker's Buriat Ground.

From his boyhood days in Nottingham, William Booth had always loved and sympathized with the poor. Since then, it is true, he had climbed the ministerial ladder, but it had only hen in the hope of dragging the people up with him, and when he found that his was impracticable he descended round citer round till his feet at length could fairly feet the ground, and the lowest, needlest masses of lumanity had been reached. And now he realized that he was in his natural element.

he realized that he was in his natural slement.

A large tent was erected in a disused hurial ground belonging to the Society of Friends, in Baker's Row. Whitechapel. In this tent meetings were held every night, and to conduct them Rev. Wm. Booth was invited for a fortnight.

The General, in looking back upon those early days, writes as follows. Here was the open door for which had longed for years, and yet I knew it not, and, moreover, was unwilling to enter it. The main reason for this was that I reared my ability to deal with people of this class; I had made acroral efforts, but apparently failed, and the thought saddened and epressed mo bayond measure. I would have given worlds had they been mine, to have been qualified to intract, and interest, and lead to salvation the masses: I saw around me, as completely outside the Chriefine leries as the unitagin heathen of foreign lands, pletialy outside the Christian circle as the untaught heathen of foreign lands, but I despaired of accomplishing it. This, I thoweigh, was nut my vocation. I had forrotten Nettingham Meadow Pletts, and the work of II, when a boy of sixteen, twenty years before." However, as was my BSRc, no squeemish difficulties were allowed to interfere with duty. I accepted the mytemous, and one nour and day found use at my post.

Thave often been impressed when conversing with Rumanists, Jews, Jindew, Indeed, Hand Churchmen, and Indeed, With Hand Churchmen, and Indeed, with the Staff was severy faith, by the fact that the sense of sin draw ener of fath very register. Just as in common danger, the most antagonistic spirits are frawn to each other to west a common—the most antagonistic spirits are frawn to each other to west a common—the most converse, so the conviction of guilt leads men to seek the common—the only—Saviour. A striking illustration of this has recently come under my notice in connection with one of our Paris corps. I quote it:

"A bisseed conversion has lately taken place at La Bustille. Four works tgo a man entered that hal with his wife. She waz a bigored Catholic, he an absolute infidel, who had nover, as he said later on, neard a word of God in his life. Are Salvation Army soldiers amposed to make and tell jokes?—C. A.

There exist no cast-tron rules shout the subject. Then your question is very vague. There are jokes that are say innocent as the sunlight, and often serve well to bring out a point to the best advantage. The S. A. is the last organization to preserbe long faces and smilespes severity. But there are jokes that are foolish, others yugar, and some positively harmful. It is useless to attempt a definition of permissable and objectionable jokes— and then it is not needed. The man who would regulate his conversations and conduct by outward rules and regulations only, has not yet found the secret of a Christian Mic. OUR WORLD-WIDE ARMY.

Seeing that we have been dealing with Canada for some little time, it may be as well for us to take a rapid review of the Army in other lands, for it is our purpose in this treatise to show, step by step, the mighty advance of our beloved Army as a whole,

We will then step across the border to that fair and prosperous country, the United States of America, and look at them for a while through the spectacles of 1886. We have previously dealt with our work under the Stars and Strines on our onward travel, but for the sake of our varies and in-struction we will again see what our cousins were doing while Canada was

God was pleased to manifest Him-self to Mrs. Rogers in dreams and visions of the night to strengthen her in times of trouble, and warn her in times of danger. How blessed it is that while we are awake we can be thinking of God, and while we are manifesting Himself to us. Mark the following:

manifesting Himself to us. Mark the following:

A Strange Dream.

Having been exercised with an uncommon sense of various shertcomings and daily infermities for some days past, I awoke this morning, lost, overwhelmed and swallowed up in love, by, and peace, occationed by the following dream. I thought I was in an elegant house, and was desired by one to go into that room (pointing the way), and I should see the late Mrs. Rogers. I wondered, but obsored I thought I entered the room, which was hung nil round with clean white hard and upon a bed are away do sister and input and upon a lot are away do sister and if riend! I looked, and loved the preclose romains; when, to my great astonishment, her cyses opened! She smiled on me, and raised herself up. I exclaimed, in a raptime of juying surprise. "Is it possible! In as the Lord permitted you to revive, so as to spoak to me?" She repiled, with mautterable sweetness, "Ail things, my dear, are possible with food. He has permitted it for your comfort." "Oh, said!, "what would I have often given to converse one hour with you, since you were taken." She raid! "There was no need, my dear, God has been with you." I unswered. "Yea, He has; but, oh, tell me, have I acted my part might in your place? Does God, in this, approve of me?" She smiled arain, and said, "He does: mult in all things files well pleased, and He will plead and He will plead and He will be deal! He loves you, not will be hanny in Hife, in death, and for ever. You are dear to God: and it is to comfort you that He permits me to appear to you and tell you this."

I thought, in my dream, she said much more, but this is all that I can distinctly receiled. And it an aver came me with irransport that I awoke. My body was bathed in sweat, and my soul as in a dream, filled with God, with heaven, and with unspeakable biss, so that I could not refrain tran waking my dear hasband to teil him, and could seep no morr, but ceil filed with God, with heaven, and with moraling. Interesting and Enthuelastic Meeting of Brigadler Pugmire at Ottawa.

I dropped into the old Army harracks, on Queen St., some years ago, mid listened to an address by a nan who had a very peculiar name, as I thought. The aubject was, "90,000 Miles by Land and Sen." I very much enjoyed that lecture, and also very much admired the lecturer.

Well, sir, you know, this same Brigadler Pugmire has been conducting revival services in this city for fan days, accompanied by Capi. Brightander Pugmire has been conducting and ambounced that anime stables, and ambounced that anime stables, as an experience of the same such a rare treat, and was well repaid for alternative, and the such a rare treat, and was well repaid for attending. There was a nice-sized audience present.

The distance was great, and we had to travel at an enemous rate of speed to make connections, int withat he tour was most interesting and pleasant.

From the little town of Peurith, near Keswick, an the bootons of Seculard, where he was born, the Brigadier obeying: God, and in the determination of following Him to the end.

His wide experience in the Old Country, and in the United States and Canada, was intensely interesting.

The General's good-live on Sunday, at the Congress Hall, London, was a memorable occasion; in fact, the best in the annels of the Army. The historic pile was garged with believing saints and victorious soldiers. Our renerable beloved founder struck a triumphant note on the subject of his coming to America, each sentence of his discourse evoking spontaneous and touching enthusiasm. He said he would like to take from the gather-

The General continued: "I would like you to authorize me to give to your comrades and kindred of that great nation across the sea, the United States of America, an expression of goodwill for their welfare. You, I am sure, desire that they stand before the world as the friends of the human family, making the glory of God and the highest well-being of manlemma family, making the glory of God and the highest well-being of man-kind the great end for which they labor. The serried ranks of the hardened, ungodly sinners trembled before the sweeping availance of truth, the General surpassing himself in directof speech

The Chief of the Staff and Commissioner Coombs declared that the General's address on Sunday night was the mest searching piece of argumentative reasoning and tender appeal ever heard in that ball. WELCOME TO OUR BELOVED GENERAL

Affectionate Greeting by the Commissioner ON BEHALF OF HER STAFF AND FIELD OFFICERS AND TROOPS THROUGHOUT THE TERRITORY.

OME, come, General! We wait for you. Our hearts, and arms, and souls are open to receive you—the champion of our cause, the keeper of our faith, the pioneer of our way.

We recognize the abundant goodness of God in permitting us again to see you face to face, and allowing us once more to be the recipients of the abundant blessings which we know your great and inspired heart comes charged to impart to us, your soldiers, followers, and children. As we look through the annals of the good and great, we cannot find one who has done as much to make "the kingdoms of the world" to "become the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ," and our souls fill with gratitude to God, and our hearts swell with honor to yon, as we greet you, the embodiment of all those virtues and capacities which have made you not only the founder, but the leader of the mest anique spiritual ann social not only the founder, but the leader of the most unique spiritual and social organization the world has ever known.

organization the world has ever known.

We realise that by your combined and untiring efforts for the solution of our social enigma in the reform of the most degraded classes, you come to us the greatest philanthropist of modern times. The 19th century is rich in theories for the amelioration of the masses, but what others have dreamt of, written of, and speculated about, you have accomplished, proving to a world which is every day more convinced of the truth of your ethics that the only irue social reform is based upon the principles of Christianity, and that religion which falls to recognize its obligations to the poor is a upon true discipleship, and a disgrace to the name of its Lord.

You have educated your people in a school of charity altogether foreign to those dencalizing influences usually associated with the word. The severe criticism which affirms that for fifty per cent. of existing beggary charity itself is responsible, can never be levied scainst the social system county figure is responsive, can have be levied significant the social system you have instituted, which has done more to decrease variancy than any other organized effort. For your establishment of the principle of self-help thousands of erstwhite tramps, halling intemployeds, and ne'er-dowells are blessing you to-day in good homes, trusted situations, and prosperous

Again, we have instituted the greatest temperance movement the Again, we have instituted the greatest temperance movement the world has ever known. The Army is the only church which makes total abstinence an essential of membership, and although the pledge is but one plank in a whole platform of doctrine, its insistence has made your people an irregistible tectotal force, which has brought to the drink traffic its heaviest loss, and has swept thousan is of its most despairing victims into deliverance from the curse. And to lay, in this country, among those who greet you, will be the ringing voices of once broken-spritted wives, the happy cheer of once neglected children, and the shining faces of those once marred and drawn by drink's ret fingers.

Through your planning, and oving, and pioneering, you have stretched out hands which have crossed seas, and re-united thousands of separated families, and from these there rise the voices of a myriad prodigals returned, and lost girls found, to hiese you in time and crown you eternity.

Then you come to us a states nan. In your marvelous administration, unliting all flags and covering all national differences, we greet you as one whose every executive ability has been given to the making of a now people abandoned to the one idea which has actuated your existence—the gioritying of God and the salvation of all men. Your quick discorument storitying of God and the salvation of all men. Your quick discorument of gift and character made the most of every capacity represented in the first few wao gathered around you, and has magnified the possibilities of the vant crowds of your later followers.

You have united the ends of the earth in one mission, and have made most tractable subjects for God and the Army out of the lawless, the deprayed, and the heathen.

The economy of your policy is the outcome of your God-given genius, and the system by which you have secured the work in each unlikely spot upon a basis of self-support is the wonder of the age.

The military precision with which you have marshalled your troops has disciplined thousands, whom you have embued with a spirit of conquest which has made them the wonder and admiration even of their foes.

Then you come to us a conqueror.

Belween the brilliance of a victor-

Then you come to us a conqueror. Between the brilliance of a victorious past and a yet more promising future you stand to-day a hero before whose hanners the glorices of Nelson, of Weilington, and of Napoleon fade and fall. Not a life slain in all the history of your bloodless wars, but tens of thousands saved. Long and fierce have been the conflicts which you have waged against oppression, and sin, and shame, contested to the death at a cost of physical strength and nerve force and heart power. The hottest suns have scorched you, the coldest winds have chilled you, the keenest pain has form your heart-strings; all the batteries of abuse and calumny and spite that the fore could muster have hurled their worst upon the flag you raised. But God has been on your side, He has heen with you. His everiasting arms have held you, and through the blackest night, the forcest tempest, and the hottest fight has brought you gloriously through with more than a million ransomed souls snatched from the armles of perdition for Christ and heaven. The shouls of those on earth whom you have hrought to Jesus mingle with the songs of those already handed upon a fafter shore, while they bless you for having led them to landed upon a fairer shore, while they bless you for having led them to the Lamb for sinners stain.

landed upon a farfer shore, while they bless you for having led them to the Lamb for sinners stain.

You come to us a father. The organization which you have raised is rich in the bonds of family ties, and out of every clims, under southern sums and northern lights; in the hichest places of the earth, and is the most lowly hut and cabin, are found tens of thousands of spiritual children to whom God has given the fatherhood of yourself. With parental tendernoss, we know, you watch over us, with infinite patience bearing with our mistakes, and tolling for our help and teaching. When trouble is our lot, and tears and difficulty beset the way, we feel your sympathy, and when in the work with which we have been entrusted by God and yourself we are successful, and souls are won and heaven praised, we know our Joy is reciprocated in your own heart. We revere you as our founder, we honor you as our leader, we obey you as our General, but here you must allow us to tell you that we love you truly, strongly, deeply, as the father of your people, and while atriving after the heroism of that cross which you have ever set before us as our guide, we seek to learn and he led still further up and on in the simplicity of little children in the faith. The four years which have flown since last we heard your volce or saw your face have not come and gone without their measure of test and trial. The night of desertion has left a shadow on our hearts, but our confidence is unshaken, our faith unmoved, and our feet unturned. General, you will find us where you left us, our oyes upon the cross, our hands upon the flag, under the uply that chapes which is the incytiable when the process of the substance was under the substance has come to us indeed, but out ythat chapes which is the incytiable when the contents and sound to us there is unturned.

General, you will find us where you left us, our eyes upon the cross, our heards upon the fine, our hearts with yours to save the world. Some change has come to us indeed, but only that change which is the inevitable development of growth, for while standing firm we have not stood still, and while, as the oak, our branches of effort have widened and extended, the roots of our confidence have but wrapped themselves the faster around those principles which have made us a people "who were not a people," and made us your children and soldlers, to follow you in your every undertaking for the saving and uplifting of others.

We can't give complets figures for the recent Havvest Festival effort, but there is no doubt that it has been all right and a grand victory scored. Brigadier Gaskin received another pressing invitation to visit the memora-ist Charch at Mimico of Sunday last, and delivered himself of two red-but addresses.

Red-Hot Revivalists at Montreal.

We are having excellent times at our revival services at good old No. 1. Major Turner had arranged a welcome council and united public demonstra-tion on Thursday. Since then had boiling times. Seventeen seekers for pardon and purity. Vesterday (Sun-day) glorious outpourings. Old friends rallied. Collections dowhled. Hallelu-jah 1—Brigadler Pugmire.

Brigadier and Mrs. Sharp at Cape Breton.

(By Wire.)

We are enthusiastic over the visit of Brigadler and Mrs. Sharp to Cape Breton District. A. North Sydney the hall was packed; Brigadler's Inspiring address took fine. Mrs. Sharp delighted the crowd with her earnest talk. At Sydney we had a glorious time and three souls. Louisburg delighted with visit. Glaco Bay had a wedding, and the week-end meetings were a grant success, hall packed out. Brigadler and Mrs. Sharp gave some interesting addresses. Holy Ghost worked mightly, seven souls, eighty-five dollars income. Corps prospects neve brighter. District booming. Addi. McLean.

"Mercy! Have you heard the word? Have you ful! its power? Morcy! Can you deceribe its hidden unfathomable meaning? Morcy! Let the sound he borns on every brease! Morcy! Shout It to the world until there is not a sin-unpardoned, a pollution-spotted, a bell-marked spirit, unwashed, unsanctified! Until there is not a sign of carse. In existence, not a sorrow unsouthed, not a tear unwiped away! Until the world is flood with salvation, and all men are hathing in its life-giving atreams!"

West Under Conviction.

Berlin.--"Rise, He calleth thee." words are found in Mark x. 49. They were used in our meeting hast night, and although spoken in weakness, the Lord backed them home by His Spirit, booked them some by His Spirit, and three souls sought caivation, while two, who would not yield to the calling of Jesus, wept under conviction. Since the Training Home. Although we miss him in the corps, we know that the Training Home. Although we miss him in the corps, we know that we will be the instrument in God's bands of teading precious souls to Jesus. One of our warriors was called away to attend the funeral of his father. Bro. Nahrgang was a real out-and-out Salvationist, and although sorry to loso him, we betieve in the words which he spoke on his departure, "All things work together for good to those who love God." We are looking forward to greater victories.—Lieut. Murray.

A New Schoolhouse.

A New Schochouse.

Bonavista.—On Sunday night we had the pleasure of a visit from our much-loved Provincial Officer, Brigadier Smecton, aiso Stant-upptin McGillivray. A large crowd attended the moctings and three souis sought pardon. The Brigadier dedicated Heber Gosse, the darling little son of Adjt. and Mrs. Brown, to God and the Army Much Interest was aroused. The Adjutant, during the past summer, has built a new schoolbouse, which was hadly needed. We have just started our Harvest Fentival, and feel that our target is sure.—J. Foote, Capatan.

Sought the Blessing.

Dauphin.—We are still fighting for Jesus. Although we have seen no apparent results of our work, we are going on le do our best for God. One has sought the blessing of holiness, and one of our comrades has farewelled for the Training Home.—Wm. Snyder.

Rejoiding in the Camp.

Fernic.—Souls are crying to God for mercy. Our hall was well packed last Sunday night, and much interest is heing taken in our meetings. Conviction is stamped on many faces, and we shall have more rejoicing in the camp yet.—Toad.

Deep Interest.

Deep Interest.

Fort William.—On Tuesday, the 16th, we had with us Mrs. Ensign Hughes. of Rochester, New York. Everybody enjoyed the meeting very much. There was a splendid crowd and deep interest was manifested. Mrs. Hughes was stationed here four years ago. On Sunday night one soul volunteered for Christ. We believe God is going to make him a worker in His vineyard. We are all happy in the fight, and mean to be faithful unto death.—Hock.

Six at the Mercy Seat.

Six at the Mercy Scat.

Glace Bay.—Since last report we have heen going on to victory. On Sunday night we had a giorious time. We met with the determination that, by the help of God, we would have a harvest of souls, and at the close of the night meeting God honored our latth by giving us six precious souts. To Him we give all the glory. We do not intend to be helind with our H. F. target.—E. J. Strethard, Llout.

Bright Prospects.

Bright Prospects.

Nanaimo.—Harvest Fostivel is here, and under the able leadership of Capi. Johnstone the prospects of reaching our target look exceedingly bright. Yesterday the devil tried to upset the meetings, but at night we had the joy of seeing one soul returning to the Master. Bless the Lord! By His help we are in for victory.—Cadet Brett.

A Troubled Soul Finds Peace.

A Troubled Sout Finds Peace.

Napasee.—We are still pushing the battle forward. Ito, and Sister Aylsworth, from King ton, who were passing through, stopped and gave us a lift by the way. But Aylsworth took the week-end meetings. He is an old-time Salvationist and hes had a wide experience in the Salvationist and hes had a wide experience in the Salvationist and hes had a wide experience in the Salvationist and hes had a wide experience. In the Salvationist had hes had a wide experience in the salvation of the salvation of the salvation of the salvation, which was very touching, and brought the people to tear to God's Spirit spoke peace to one soti, a girl of fifteen years. Capt Patt reson has arrived to help Capt. Pitcher with the Harvest Festival. They are full of faith for their target—Haileiujah Ben.

Sought Him in Tears.

Oakville.—Praise the Lord, we are still marching on and having victory. Last Sunday three precious souls, with tears streaming down their faces, sought and found pardon. Others were deeply convicted. The average attendance is increasing, and we are helieving that hetter times are in store for us.—Pearle M. Hinton.

Fifty-Four at the Crass.

Ottawa.—We extended a hearty wel-come to Brigadier Pugmire and Capt. Urquhart, the Red-Hot Revivaiists.

Their music and singling has been a great attraction. The meetings are largely attended, the half being pack of on Sunday night. We had an old a sunday morning. Thirty-dive soliders and Christians were present, and one kneit at the cross. Brigadier Pickering, who was in the city on bushess, was cerdially welcomed. He spoke from God's Word in the afternoon and night meetings. Brigadier Pugmire dedicated Gertrude Catherine, the Infant daughter of Ensign and Mrs. Bloss, to God and the Army. Fifty-four souls have kneit at the cross for consecration and salvation during these special meetings.—A. French.

They Love the Army.

Pearceton.—The Salvation Army has not died out here, although we have been without officers for a year. Capt. Owen, of Montreal, conducted the meeting last Shnday evening, which was very much appreciated. Pearceton people love the Army, and long to have officers. Father Sergent is a blood-and-fire soldier. He still wears his uniform and believes in standing by the flag.—Anel N.

Since has report. Woodstock has been visited. This is an old battle-ground of the writer's, and we had a roal pleasant time. The hastern service, "Alone in Liverpool," was well attended, and everyone was satisfied. Mrs. Huffman, ibe Lecai Agent, die try well, and promised to do better next quarter. Bro. P ston also still holds his own. My t. aporai meds were well supplied by Bro. and Sist w McLeod.

Ingersoil was the next place visited. Busign and Mrs. Hoddinott are in command, and are doing very well. The weather was unfavorable, and very few attended the service. Mrs. Anderson, the Local Agent, did very well indeed. Sile has been derived indeed. Sile has been derived in the service of the property of the

The unexpected bas bappened in many ways. I did not think, when I wrote a few weeks ago of my rambings, that I should be so soon on the more again, but we still live in a day when people make up their minds to get married, and this was the most important coargement that catled me away from home so soon This time I tool, my partner In lifewith me, although it came at a very anfortunate time, being just before H. F. Still, the day had been set trikets were out, and all arrangements in land, so that no change could be very well made. The whole trip, as far as traveling was concerned, was disappoluting. We left our home en Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 10th, at 4.75 p.m., the train heling about one hour late.

The Capital City.

The Capital City was our first engagement. We arrived just in time for the open-sit. There were mid many of us to face the enemy, but the people vailled in good numbers around us, and showed their expreciation of our devotion by a liberal offering. A very good crowd attended the indoor service. We had a real good meeting, and one man got saved. The offerings amounted to six dollars and tea cetts. May Good bless the conference where a real hard fight in every way.

The Smoky City.

The Smoky City.

At 12.30 p.m. next day we left for the Smoky City, Butte, Capi Hurst was at the depot to greet us. The Captain is not very well, but sticks to the light. She has had her hands full sine ecoming to Butte, having changed anils, also quarters. We had a good time here, outside and in.

Jumped for Their Lives.

After about twenty-six hours' delay the train arrived. It was a very long one, and was made on the formation and was made of the second constant of the second consecution and were walting at Bonner Sicilon for No. 5 to cross, when suddenly the No. 2 section came into us with a mighty crash. Someone had seen in coming, and yelled for the passengers to look out or jump. Your humble see and just struck the earth when the erash came, the miny dea, wife, who was cross after me, received a truppe of singst ornices. After quite a delay both trains were taken back to Missoula and re-fitted out. We finally got away at 10 p.m. arriving at Helena at 4 a.m. and expected to leave on the 12,50 p.m. train for home, but another wrick on the G. N. R. delayed us here about six hours. We finally got to Great Falls at 9,30 p.m. or about farty hours after time.

The comrades had held on well, had good meetings, two had sought God, and the War Crys were all sold. Now we are in for the H. F. effort with all our might.—M. Ayre.

Harmonic Revivalists.

Here we are at Burre, the Granite City, and one of the best in the State Of Vermout. Arriving at the depot. Capt. Bloss met us, and piloted as to the quarters. From there we went to our billets, and it beling c'r-ner-time we did not need any persuasion to do justice to the good things set before the course, we are not strangers here. In days gone by Adit, Kendall was most stationed here. We had a red-hot holiness meeting. Mrs. Kendall was also stationed here. We had a red-hot holiness meeting. Adjt. Kendall was also stationed here. We had a red-hot holiness meeting. Adjt. Kendall was near-tscarbing talk. The meetings were well attended and the power of wonderful manner. The survival application of the people was that these gatherings were inspiring time. The crowds are increasing.

The Lores were strengthened by a visit from Major Turner, our worthy and Sunday. The forces of durinass were stormed in a terrific manner. The Major's subject for Sunday night was, "An Unitimely Death," which made a good impression.

Monday night was the farewell of the Harmonics. We had a rousing march and open-air, and the inside meeting was a regular balletigh time. Socolal argrees were forced, and promises were tested and proved. The formerish curve is said one. We had a halledigh window, and two souls wolumteered to the mercy-seat, making in the self-winder of the force of the corty. "Power to keep me sinless," through the levyhole.

"You're a heathen," questi me aggreved Blanche, with a fine scorn of cervant conventionalities. And she saug the louder.

"Sinless? It couldn't be. Nobody is, You can't be saved from sla," reforted Agnes, roused on her steep to sicop to theological argument with Blanche.

Blanche couldn't argue, She took refuge in a well-known trick of schoolhoys", and said her young mistress "daresent go to an Arnay meeting and hear for bereeft."

Frobably this threat alone would hardly have wrought out its desired effect on Miss Sullivan. But her soul was sick within her. Blanche's bols-terous songs and assured relationship with heaven, eitrred into anguish the smoutdering unrest of six long years. Agnes Sullivan was a member in good and regular standing, of a baptlet chapel. But six years ago she had given up her Sunday-School class, saying she would not try to teach children what she knew nothing of herself, and settled into that practical infidelity whose hopelesaness means not so much unhelief as "unfaltifulness." No good to anybody" was her bitter verdict on her own life. No one ever asked her about her soul. Its existence was never recognized in the plans or arrangements of the Christians she saw around her. OUR GENERAL IS COMING. By W. RITCHIE, Victoria, B.C. Tunes.-We shall win (B. J. 28); Realms of the blest (B.J. 32)

Our General is coming again, Silver-haired by the flight of the years,

O'er the world for the cross he has been, Knowing weariness, sorrow, and tears.

Chorus We will work, we will pray,
Our General is coming again;
May the Lord of our host
With our leader for ever remain.

Our General is coming again,
Will he find we've heen true to our
God?
Some, alas! all unfaithful bave been.
May he win them again to the blood.
Our General is coming again,
Will he find we've grown nearer to
God.

God,
All on fire for the saving of men,
Or idling along by the road?

Our General is coming again, God's blessing attend him, we pray. With a loud and a fervent amen. Will his troops rush again to the fray.

SEND THE FIRE!

By LIEUT, FRENCH, Nad.

Tune.—Shall we gather at the river? (B.J. 21).

Chorus.

Spotless Lamb, our heartr are panting, For the cooling, healing stream;
As we tarry at the fountain
May Thy smile upon us beam.

Resting sweetly on Thy bosom, Ever conscious of Thy love, Draw us gently, toving Saviour, Come, Thou Holy, Heavenly Dove.

Holy Spirit, send the fire, Send it now upon us here; Lift our hearts a little higher, May we feel Thy presence near.

By BRO. F. IBBOTSON, Toronto. Tune.--A never-failing Friend (B.J. SS).

SS).

I've found such a Friend in this Saviour of mine.

The dearest of friends He's to me,

I've proved Him to be such a constant delight,

from sin He just now sets me free, somehine or rain He's ever the same.
A Friend ever faithful and true.
If parton He bought with His own
preclous blood,
know He will guide me safe through.

A never-falling Friend.

It took years of wandering to find such a Friend, And caused me much misery and pain;

I will be true to Jeans. in cloud as well as shine, rejoicing in the knowledge That God's great gift is mine; That I thouch once a stranger Tô all His wondrous tove, Am saved and on my journey To meet Him up above.

I will be true to Jesus, For life will soon bo o'er, And present opportunities Will come to me no more; So let my life be holy, My conversation pure, With Gorpel armor girded, I'll to the end endure.

FIGHT THE BATTLE TO THE END.

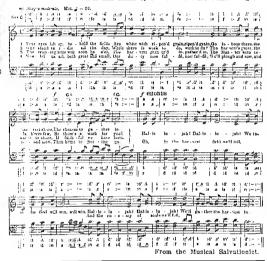

By WM. RITCHIE, Victoria, B.C. Tune.—Champagne Charlie.

Tune.—Champagne Charlie.

Yes, one a thousand foos shall chase,
And win for God the day;
Ten thousand foos, the Bible says,
Just two can chase away.
So then together forward go,
The Master's work to do,
No flag of truce to Satan show,
To God on high be true.

Tune .- Stand up, stand up for Jesus. I will be true to Jesus, And glory in His cross,

And glory in His cross,
The world's atteing pleasure.
Shail ever be but loss;
No time for careless living,
Or triffing worldly things,
Be mine the joy of serving
My Saviour, King of Kings.

Fight the battle to the end,
Fight the battle to the end,
Ge on, go on! United go,
And wage the war against the foe,
Fight the battle to the end,
Fight the battle to the end,
The Lord of hosts your strength shall

And He will keep you to the end.

Should Satan come in gentle guise, Some dark and gloomy day, And with his counsel, seeming wise, Suggest you leave the twy: Just tell the old deceiver that You're in the fight to stay, With all his arts he cannot get You from your place away.

Strong in Jebovah's mighty power,
The victory you shall win,
His promise proving every hour
The blood shall keep you clean;
And by-and-bye, when ended here,
The war, the toil, the care,
That sweet "Well done!" you then shall hear,
And blies eternal share.

SKILLED TEACHERS.

A teacher recently read to her young pupils an account of a man "who lived for some years upon the frontier." What in the story was reproduced by one of the children, to her surprise it read that he had lived for some years "on his front ear." Another leacher read that a gentleman "had occupied for some time a fine country seat." Upon asking the children what was meant by a "country year," an deast silence reigned till a little toilow said he thought he knew, and to the enquiry of the teacher replied, "A milking stool." Still another had been reading to her pupils about the rain. One heling saked to write a little story about the rain, after declaring the inability to do so, produced the following: "What does the rain say to the dust?" I am on to you and your name is mud!"

Upward, still unward, to that blessed land.

Her spirit was wafted by the angel band.

Softly, yes, softly, her soul took its flight.
Out of carting darkness to mansions of light.

Calculy and quietly she passed to her Catinly and quietly she passed to her rad rest.

And rest.

And plillowed her head on her Savfour's breast;

Upward, yes, upward, to the streeds of gold.

Up till before her the gates did unfold.

The Archduke Karl was sent to try his fortune in Spain, where he prospered as long as the English Lord Peterbotonica fought for him; but his German advisers were so dull and wrong-headed, that Peterborough threw and scupid, that Peterborough threw cained ground, and Karl was forced to shut himself up in Barcelona.

In the meantime, the Elector Maximilian of Bavaria had brought a whole French army into his duchy to invinde the Austrian Tyrol, which Bavaria always coveted. He gained some successes at first, but the Tyrolese, always the most true and loyal of peaants, drove, him out with great loss. Eugene had been called back from Italy, and an Bagish army, under the great Duke of Marthorough arched up from Holland.
